On account of losing so much blood before medical attention could be secured he was unable to stand the terrible strain and although he was taken to a hospital in Falls City as soon as possible and the services of the very best doctors and nurses were secured it was found impossible to save his life.

Some time before his death he realized that he was not going to get well and sent for Brother L. A. Hunt to come to his bedside and pray with him. This request was gladly granted by Brother Hunt, who went and remained with Harry for some time, and Harry was converted and told his relatives and friends that he was sure of going to that better world where there would be no more sorrow.

He also attended to all his business affairs and made his own funeral arrangements, advising his brothers the kind of a casket he desired and that he wanted to be laid away between his two brothers, Bud and Jesse, in Mt. Hope cemetery that he wanted Brother Hunt to preach the funeral at the Christian church here.

Harry was born May 24, 1872, in Watson, Mo., where the family lived until he was 18 years old, and they moved to Fortescue, later on moving to the J. D. Morris farm, just west of town, where they resided for a number of years, and about eight years ago moved to Nebraska, near Barada, about 15 miles north of Falls City.

Those of his relatives who have gone on before are his mother, who died February 16, 1909, his father dying April 29, 1919, and two brothers, Bud, who died in Lincoln, Neb., May, 1915, and Jesse, at Beatrice, Neb., June 2, 1915.

Besides a host of friends to mourn his death are three brothers, Fred, and George, of Barada; Robert, of Avoca, Neb.; and three sisters, Mrs. Carrie Turner, of Rapid City, S. D.; Mrs. Hattie Vinsonhale, of Fairbury, Neb.; and Miss Eva, of Beatrice, Neb.

Funeral services were conducted at the Christian church here, at 12 o'clock Sunday, April 27, by Brother L. A. Hunt, who preached a very strong sermon of consolation to the relatives and friends, taking his text from Psalms 71-20: "Thou which hast showed me great and sore troubles shalt quicken me again, and bring me up again from the depth of the earth."

Regardless of the rain there was a large crowd gathered at the church to pay their last respects to the deceased. The flowers were many and very beautiful. The pall bearers were: J. D. Morris, W. M. Stadlamann, Pete Keaster, Gus Jones, R. L. Bridgman, and J. F. Couts. Those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean and daughter, of Avoca, Neb.; Fred and George Dean, of Barada, Neb.; Mrs. W. M. Goetz, of Falls City, Neb.; Mrs. Frank Honea, of Barada, Neb.; and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Vinsonhale and two children, of Fairbury, Neb.

Mothers, Fathers, "Play the Game Fair"

It has been truly said that "The hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world" and it has been admitted by every right thinking man, that the influence of the mothers of our children is the greatest force for righteousness in the world; consequently there is a great obligation upon mothers. Are they meeting it as they should?

When this country first undertook to defend her rights in the great world war some mothers were so bitter against their sons being drafted to wear the national uniform. We were horrified to learn that through the unpatriotic act of his mother a young soldier was tried and sentenced to 25 years in a federal prison, and thus branded as a coward and a slacker, never again to look the world in the face and say "I did my duty as a man."

But what of the women who have been blessed with motherhood, and the fathers who have the mighty responsibility of training souls for the "Better Kingdom," who, by indifference, are causing their children to look upon the church and its activities as of no vital importance? During the six days of the week they, perhaps, never call attention of their children to the Sunday School lesson and on Sunday morning lie in bed late, and, if they go to services at all, they get in too late, thus stamping the service as cheap and of no account, and, perhaps, most of the family stay at home and the boys play ball or work most of the day, or play cards in a neighbor's hay mow, or one of a hundred other things, thus getting farther and farther away from spiritual things.

Will the great Judge say: "Mothers and Fathers you have failed. Little children were given to you and ye trained them not in the ways of eternal life; instead ye told them how to save and lay up worldly things so they could have a good time and make money and be counted successful; ye, ye tried to make this life as easy and pleasant for them as possible, while I gave their little lives into your keeping expecting you to see that they were taken not sent to the house of worship where they could learn more about me and fitted for a life of Christian service on earth and then a much more beautiful life in the Heavenly Kingdom."

History teaches us that nation after nation, and individual after individual, has tried for world power, leaving out God and His great plan. What has been the result? All of them have been dashed against the rocks of fate, and their bones are bleaching on the shores of time. These awful failures are danger signals and warnings, that to forsake the living God, is sure and absolute failure. Yet today, as yesterday, and 2000 years ago, intelligent men and women of good business acumen are rushing along blindly ignoring the call to Christian service. They have their names on the church roll and if asked if they were Christians would undoubtedly say they were. But would they pass muster under God's scrutiny?

Men and women who not "play the game" fair and loyal to Him who "died for you." Why not see this matter in the right light? Sooner or later you will have to meet your God and your life will be laid bare before the Great White Throne; you will begin to make excuses, but of what avail will they be when Jesus says, "Did ye not hear of the children of Israel who wandered away from God and went into sin and were brought back, time after time, but wandered away again until the Heavenly Father scattered them over the face of the earth to be cursed and spat upon, and how, since that time, nation after nation, and millions of men and women who have had the same warning have gone astray and were banished from the face of God, and yet ye did the same thing and permitted the little innocent children, given you to care for, to wander away? You had the Bible to tell you how to lead these little ones. You had the church to take them to. You had the sunshine and the seasons, the growing things around you all the time to tell you of the Mighty Living God, yet you ignored it all and now you will have to pay the price. You had years in which to make good and failed. Men and women and little children died all around you as a warning that some time you would have to pass away, yet you were indifferent to a criminal degree."

Cheyenne County Wins Glory at the State Fair, Held at Pueblo, Colo., 1918

In Competition with the Entire State Cheyenne County Makes a Killing With its Agricultural Display.

In the competition for non-irrigated counties Cheyenne county was awarded second place.

In individual premiums Cheyenne county was particularly strong, it receiving 23 first, 18 second and 3 third premiums. In potatoes, onions and melons it stood supreme, and that in competition with irrigated counties which make the growing of these crops a specialty.

So much for Cheyenne county's agricultural exhibit at the state fair, but the tale is not yet all told.

J. O. D. Ranch of Aroya, this county, managed by D. Schilling, with precisely the same exhibit it had at the Cheyenne County Fair, the showing being of cattle, hogs, sheep and jacks, won 9 first, 5 second, 3 third and 1 fifth premiums, besides 3 championships and 1 reserve championship on hogs, sheep and jacks, and all this against the stiffest kind of competition.

This is the story of Cheyenne county's glorious success at the Colorado State Fair for the year 1918, told without frills or exaggeration. Read it over and ponder.
